

1832

1821
11
1832

When Clara Barton was 11, her brother David fell from the roof of the barn. He was badly hurt. For two yrs Clara was by his side nearly all the time. She fed him, gave him his medicine and read to him.

David finally got well, then some of Clara's friends in North Oxford caught smallpox. She spent several weeks nursing them back to health.